Valerious Cows.

The editor of the Condon (Or.) Globe saw a deed of cow valor that was worth recording as well as seeing. A herd of cattle and among them two cows, accompanied by their calves, were grazing in tall dead grass when the calves became separated a little from the rest of the herd.

Just then two huge, hungry coyotes crept up through the grass, cut off the calves from the rest of the cattle and started in pursuit of them. After running about 200 yards the calves came to a high, five wire, barbed wire fence, and, being small, managed to get through it. On the other side of the fence was an open pasture.

The wolves quickly followed the calves through the fence and were rapidly running them down on the other side, when the two cow mothers discovered that was going on. Each uttered a loud bellow, hoisted her tail and started for the rescue.

It appeared to be a hopeless chase, for the wire fence intervened, and the cows were certainly much too large to get through it. They knew well enough that it was there, and could, besides, see it plainly, but both cows plunged together straight into it.

The watching editor, horrified, looked to see them hurled back, frightfully wounded, but instead one of the posts gave way under the onslaught, the wires sank down, and in another moment the mothers were on the pasture side of the fence, badly cut and bleeding, but still able to charge the wolves successfully and put them to flight.

Soon the cows were licking the rescued calves affectionately, and the coyotes were in a big disappointed crouch from the summit of a knoll near by.

Two instances of various readings.

possibly from confusing said f, may be worth giving.

In the Rev. A. B. Grosart's edition of Giles Fletcher's poem, "Christ's Victory and Triumph," the reading in part 2, stanza 44, is, "And as he fought * * * to fly from his own heart." The editor remarks on this, "I read fought, but I am not sure that sought is not intended." In Griffin & Farran's "Ancient and Modern Library" the reading is sought.

In the Wesleyan Methodist Hymn Book (Hymn No. 126, verse 2) the present reading stands:

In nature's strength I sought in vain For what my God refused to give. I could not then the mastery gain Or lord of all my passion live.

This reading appears to have been adopted by John Wesley in 1780, but what Charles Wesley wrote was quite different:

In nature's strength I fought in vain For what my God refused to give. I could not then, etc.

Notes and Queries

THE BREADFRUIT TREE.

Something About This Strange and Useful Asiatic Plant.

The breadfruit tree is a native of southern Asia, the south Pacific islands and the Indian archipelago. In appearance it resembles somewhat the wild chestnut. It grows to the height of 40 or 50 feet and has dark green leaves, many of them two feet in length, which are deeply divided into pointed lobes.

Hidden among the great leaves the breadfruit grows. It is a sorosis, is nearly spherical, often weighs four or more pounds and has a thick, yellow rind. This fruit is the chief food of the south sea islanders. They seldom eat a meal without it. The eatable part lies between the rind and the core and when fully ripe is yellow and juicy. It is better for food before it has matured, and the natives gather it while the pulp is white.

Before it is ready for table use it must be roasted, when it looks like wheat bread, and is both palatable and nutritious. Usually the fruit is cut into three or four slices and roasted or baked in an oven.

Frequently the people of a village join in making a huge oven, in which several hundred breadfruits may be baked at one time. Thus they are all supplied with bread without its costing any of them much labor. Prepared in this way, the bread will keep for weeks.

The breadfruit is in season eight months of the year. When the season finally draws to a close, the last fruits are gathered and made into a sour paste called "maha." This paste will keep good for months and is made into balls, wrapped in leaves and baked, just as needed.

Bread is not the only product of the breadfruit tree. From it cement, cloth, tinder and lumber are also obtained. A glutinous, milky juice oozes from the trunk of the tree, which makes an excellent cement when boiled with coconut oil. From the fibrous inner bark a kind of coarse cloth is made, and the big leaves make good towels. The lumber is used for building houses and many other purposes. Besides all this the dried blossoms are used as tinder when fires are kindled.—Philadelphia Times

A SLAVE TO DUTY.

An Elephant That Would Not Neglect a Baby It Was Caring For.

Marie A. Millie, in St. Nicholas, tells a number of "Stories of Elephants." Mrs. Millie says:

Some time before the elephant hunt I have described my husband was at a station in Bengal. His work kept him out nearly all day, and, being ill, I used to lie for hours in a long garden chair on the veranda, too weak to read or enjoy any more exciting amusement than my eyes supplied to me.

We had three elephants for our tents and baggage, and one deer creature used to feed from my hands every day and seemed as gentle as any pet dog or cat.

One of our government chaprasis was particularly devoted to her and invariably shared his meal of fruit or flour cakes with his dumb friend. On a particularly hot day the chaprasi, to my surprise, placed his tiny child of 10 months at the elephant's feet, warning her expressively that the infant was in her charge and was to be cared for till his return. I myself was an eyewitness of her wonderful sagacity. Large banana trees and fig trees grew around, and, to my surprise, the elephant broke off one of the former's spreading leaves, held it like a fan in her trunk and from time to time gracefully waved it over the slumbering child, whether to temper the heat of the atmosphere or to keep off flies, I am unable to say. The gentle way in which she moved her feet over the child and across to each side astounded me. I sent for a white loaf and some oranges, and, calling her by name (she was never chained), tried in vain to tempt her to my side on the low veranda. Nothing would induce her to leave her charge. The warm air and monotonous wave of the swinging fan overpowered me with drowsiness, to which I yielded, and, after a sleep of some duration, I was awakened by quiet, subdued snorts beside me. To my surprise I found that the chaprasi had just returned to his offspring, and the elephant stood near the veranda beside me, patiently waiting and gently asking for the tempting dainties so bravely withstood for over two hours.

Made Him Propose.

The diffident young man wanted to propose to his girl, but for the life of him he did not know how to go about it. He read books on the subject and sought information from men who had experience, and while the theories were admirable in every instance he found that the practice thereof was a different thing. He was walking with her one evening, thinking over these things, when her shoe became untied.

She stooped out her pretty little foot, with a smile, and looked down at it. He fell on his knees to tie the lace. Then he walked on with her. The shoe became untied again. The third time it happened he was ready as before.

"See if you can't tie a knot that won't come undone," she said, as he worked away at it.

He looked up at her tenderly. "If I can't, I know a man who can," he said.

"Do you want him to tie it?" she asked coquettishly.

"Yes," he replied.

She jerked her foot away. He smiled to himself.

"It's the parson," he said. And he rose to his feet and finished the proposal.—Strand Magazine.

Selfish.

"Why do prosperous men always say that the ladder of success is made up of broken rounds?"

THE LITTLE TIGER.

The little boy who tickles a tiger with a straw and the man who fools with his health are on a par.

There is any distinction it is in favor of the boy who imagines he is playing with a big cat and is not old enough to realize his danger. The man if he don't know, ought to know that when he neglects his health he is tempting fate and tampering with death. Nine men out of ten neglect their health. The result is that untold thousands fall victims every year to the insatiable tiger called consumption.

are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts directly on the lungs, building new tissue, in place of old, and driving out all impurities and disease germs. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and restores the lost appetite. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, and nerve tonic. Thousands have testified to their recovery under its use after their cases were given up by the doctors and all hope was gone. The druggist who claims to have something that will do just as well is untrustworthy.

"I was afflicted for four years with local weakness, but would not confess it for a time," writes Mrs. Beulah Woodall, of Bateman, Patrick Co., Va. "My mother told me she had read of Dr. Pierce's medicines and advised me to try them. I took the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and they cured me. I cannot praise Dr. Pierce's medicines too much."

Nothing will keep down the fortunes of an ambitious family more than big doctor's bills. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser enables a family to get along without calling in a doctor except in cases of serious illness or accidents. It teaches a mother how to treat the minor maladies and accidents of every day life. It contains 1,008 pages, over 300 illustrations, and is written in plain English that any one can understand. Over a million homes own copies of it. A new edition is ready and will be given away absolutely FREE. If you want a paper-covered copy send twenty-one one-cent stamps, to cover the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. If you want a fine cloth binding, send ten cents extra, thirty-one cents in all.

STAR CHAMBER METHODS.

Unless grossly misrepresented San Jose, California, is now and has been for years cursed with as crooked a gang of politicians as ever robbed a community. The Judge on the Bench, the Board of Supervisors, the City Council, Sheriff, Justices of the Peace and Constables have been in the ring and assisted in carrying out its purposes for a share of the spoils.

Recently a Grand Jury was impaneled at San Jose, and as there was general complaint among the taxpayers of the manner in which the public funds were being squandered for the benefit of the members of the gang it was expected that the Grand Jury would make a thorough and impartial investigation of public offices and report its findings to the court and the people generally. The Judge, it appears, was opposed to the investigation and voluntarily went before the jury and advised against indicting certain officials. This reprehensible act became known to the public through the enterprise of a newspaper that was opposed to the plunderers. The Judge assumed an indignant air, had the members of the jury summoned before the Court, not for the purpose of furthering the cause of justice, but to ascertain if possible, which, if any, of them dared to make it known that he advised against indicting members of the gang who were robbing the treasury. One of the jurors declined to answer the questions propounded by the Judge, whereupon the Judge became abusive and denounced the juror as a cur and a scoundrel because he suspected him of stating the fact that he, the Judge, had advised against indicting the thieves.

When the final report of the jury was submitted, the juror who had been characterized as a cur presented a report in which he embodied a part of the evidence against the accused officials. This was a sufficient refutation of the Judge's allegations and a complete vindication of the juror's course, and he is now congratulated by every honest man in San Jose on the manly, fearless and dignified statement given by him in his report to the court.

This San Jose episode has created a strong sentiment in California against the Grand Jury system. The Sacramento Bee, one of the most independent and fearless newspapers, advocates the abolition of the system, which, it says, makes cowards and liars and blackens the reputation of the best citizen and leaves him without any means of redress.

It is idle to expect a thorough and impartial investigation of public affairs by a grand jury selected by men who are concerned in jobs to rob the treasury, especially when the Court and County Supervisors are implicated in the jobbery. The judge and a member of the board select the jurors and it is quite natural that they should choose men who are in the ring to serve as such. Under such circumstances investigations by grand juries are farcical, for it could not be expected that they would expose the crookedness of officials who shared the spoils with them and fully understood addition, division and silence.

A NEW DEAL IN OHIO.

At the recent election in Ohio the Fusionists in Cincinnati, who opposed Hanna for Senator, elected fourteen members of the Legislature. Nine of the Fusionists are Silver Democrats and five are anti-Hanna Republicans. These fusionists have agreed to vote for the caucus nominees of the Republican party and will, therefore, go into the Republican caucus, giving the Republicans 80 and the Democrats 65 on joint ballot.

The object of this new movement has not yet been made public. It is surmised that the 14 anti-Hanna votes from Hamilton county will give the anti-Hanna men a majority of the caucus, in which event the great boomer will be defeated. On the other hand there are those who believe that Hanna has arranged matters with the Hamilton county legislative delegation which will insure his election beyond doubt.

GOVERNOR Sadler has appointed Hon. John Sparks of Reno, to represent this State at the National Stock Growers' Convention to be held at Denver, Colorado, January 25, 26, and 27, 1898. It is the purpose of the convention to organize a National Stock Growers' Association, and to devise measures for the improvement and protection of an industry which ranks among the most important in the land.

GOVERNOR Sadler, who has just returned from a visit to the Eastern part of the State, reports considerable activity in the live stock and mining industries. Cattle are in demand, as are also gold mines, and the fortunate ones who have either, can readily dispose of them at fair prices. On the other hand many good silver mines have closed down by reason of the low price of the metal.

The United States Circuit Court at Carson is engaged in trying a case involving mining interests in Silver Peak District, Esmeralda County. There are quite a number of witnesses in attendance, as the case is of considerable importance, Louis Haaschett being one of the parties.

CORBETT AND FITZSIMMONS.

They Have Agreed to a Return Match.

The city was thrown into a convulsion of excitement yesterday over the news that Corbett and Fitzsimmons were to have a return match. The following is what caused the excitement:

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 25.—The Express this morning publishes the following:

"Within ten days Corbett and Fitzsimmons will sign articles for a battle for the heavyweight championship of the world."

This positive statement was made last night by William J. Connor, one of the most trusted agents of James J. Corbett, and William A. Brady.

"This statement is made on the authority of a letter that I have received from headquarters," said Mr. Connor, "and it is positive and certain. I could tell the time and place where the principals and their managers will meet, but for certain reasons I am not at liberty to do so until I receive permission from Mr. Brady. Fitzsimmons is now in St. Louis and Corbett in New York, but they will get together within the time mentioned."

There is nothing said yet about the place, but of course it will come off in this city at the old arena. It has always been Corbett's wish to have a chance at him again on the same battle ground where he was defeated. He has sentimental reasons for wanting to be here, and as Dan Stuart will have a finger in the pie it can't very well come off anywhere else.

Livingston has always insisted that a great carnival would come off in June of next year in this city and that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight would be the leading attraction.

Livingston, when he was shown the despatch, said it was correct but the news had been prematurely given out. Dan Stuart left Dallas, Texas, on the fifth to come here, but got wind of the fact that there was a chance to match the men and went to New York. He arrived on the 24th. "Yes," said Livingston, "there will be a return match and it will be fought in this city."—Appeal.

COLUMBIA CALENDAR FOR 1898

The JOURNAL is pleased to acknowledge the receipt of the Columbia Pad Calendar for 1898.

This is the thirteenth year the Columbia Pad Calendar has made its appearance, and while its general style is of the same familiar character, the many bright thoughts that it contains, contributed by its friends in many parts of the country, as well as abroad, are new, and will be appreciated by all who take an interest in bicycling, healthful exercise and good roads.

The 1898 Columbia Pad Calendar contains a convenient arrangement of dates that will prove useful to busy men, and as plenty of space is reserved for memoranda, the pad may be of use as a diary and as a reminder for business appointments and obligations. It is neat in appearance, takes up but little room and is both ornamental and useful for the desk, while its stand is of such character that it may be either used upon the desk or hung upon the wall.

The moon's phases are indicated in the Calendar for the benefit of those who wish to have this information. The Calendar is ready for distribution and all orders for it will be filled upon the day of receipt. It can be obtained by mail prepaid for five two-cent stamps by addressing the Calendar Department of the Pope Manufacturing company, Hartford, Conn.

Women and Men's Clothes.

Ouida believes that, instead of going into society, women would be better employed in applying their minds to "dressing themselves, their children and their men." She says in The Cosmopolitan:

"I do not think men would long resist a feminine effort on the part of women to introduce some better male costume than that which at present makes the streets and the drawing rooms alike hideous—that is, if the effort were general, sustained and persuasive. The trouser is the culminating point in modern male attire of ugliness, indecency, unsuitability and unhygienic stupidity. The chimney pot is the more ludicrous, but I think the trouser is the more odious portion of masculine clothing. It would make a guy of Apollon himself."

It would be interesting to know what most men would say to the proposition that their wives design the clothes they should wear. Imagine the predicament of an aesthetic wife with a taste for mauve spike tails and a refractory husband with a horror of attracting notice. The number of complications is too horrifying to contemplate. Ouida is quite right about the trouser, but a mind built to dwell upon fineness and toques—would it be entirely safe to trust such a mind with the grim problem of the trouser, the baggy vest, the stern silk hat?

It is doubtful. Best leave man's garments to the tailors—and to the bicycle, which is already doing a great work in exterminating the hated trouser.—Philadelphia Times

Railway Vibration.

Annoyance and temporary discomfort are small items in the schedule of ills chargeable to vibration and noise on railways and the unceasing and terrific racket of many of our cities. The noise of the elevated railways has caused convulsions in children and what is equivalent to nightmare in adults. One lady of somewhat delicate organization has frequently sprung from her bed on the approach of a train and found herself standing upright in the middle of the floor when she awakened. It seemed that the engineer on this train had a sweetheart living in that neighborhood, and he managed so that the locomotive made a series of peculiar noises whenever he approached the dwelling of his innamorata. This was the only train that so affected the sufferer, and she was obliged to leave the neighborhood on account of it. In ordinary railway travel speed is the most important item to be looked after, and the noise attending the great rapidity with which the train moves is really a secondary consideration. Medical scientists who are giving attention to this subject are beginning to demand for their patients, especially those who find it necessary to take long journeys for their health, accommodations in which due regard is had for quiet and freedom from that vibration which affects the nervous system. Special routes are mapped out and certain lines are avoided because of the irritation by the clatter and swinging of the trains.—New York Ledger.

He Still Needed Her.

A pathetic little tribute to a wife's tact and self forgetfulness was given by an old New Hampshire farmer.

The couple had lived happily together for nearly 50 years, and when the wife died her husband seemed utterly unable at first to act or even think for himself. The funeral was taken in charge by an energetic niece, and, according to those who were present, everything was conducted with propriety. One of the neighbors stopped to speak to the poor old widower when the last offices at the grave had been performed. "William," she said, laying a kindly hand on her old friend's shoulder, "I think everything was beautiful. It was just such a funeral as Mary wished, I am sure."

"You mean well, Mis' Snowden, I know," said the old man, looking up at her with dim eyes, "but you don't take it in as I do. Niece Ellen couldn't see to everybody's comfort as Mary would have. Why, I've thought a dozen times today if Mary was only here to 'tend to this funeral seems to me I could almost bear to have lost her." Youth's Companion.

Evening Dress In a Street Car.

He swung aboard a Walnut Hills night car at Fifth street and was evidently angry at having had a long wait, for he complained in audible tones about tired men having to stand on street corners. When he stepped inside and saw every seat taken, a disappointed look came over his face, and he grabbed for a strap with a deep growl. Luck was coming his way, however, for at Eighth street a man near the door got out, and the tired man sank into his place with a sigh of relief. The car then proceeded to the opposite side of the street and stopped to take on a man and a woman. The passengers looked up curiously at seeing a couple in full dress climb aboard. A pale blue silk dress, low cut, and with short sleeves, adorned the woman, and her escort was got up in immaculate dress togs. The man was very gallant and looked about for a seat for the woman, even trying to get some ladies to sit closer and make room. When this failed, he approached the tired man who had got on at Fifth street and asked him if he would have any objection to giving up his seat. The other looked up in amazement and said in a decided way that he did object. The man then said:

"I think it is very mean in you to allow a lady to stand in a car." Quick as a flash the tired man burst out:

"I think it's — mean in you to make her ride in a street car in that dress." Roars of laughter from the passengers followed. The couple alighted at the next street, and the tired man once more sank into repose.—Cincinnati Enquirer

Cured by Sight of His Graveclothes.

The influence of mind over body is well illustrated in this story from a northern Pennsylvania town, and which is said to be vouched for on good authority:

A man well along in years became ill, and the physician told the members of the family that there was no possible chance for his recovery. They were advised to prepare for the worst, and finally death was regarded as a matter of a very few hours. A well disposed attendant made all preparations to prepare the body for burial as soon as life surrounded its hold, and in order to have the clothes ready for immediate use they were brought into the sick-room. The sick man opened his eyes, and his glance rested on the clothes. He recognized them instantly, and the import of the proceedings flashed through his enfeebled mind. What little energy was left in his system was massed then and there to utter an emphatic expression that wouldn't look well in print. Perhaps the attendant wasn't surprised. Some say she came near having a fit, but that doesn't matter.

From the moment that the sick man discovered his graveclothes resting on the back of a chair there was a decided improvement in his condition, and he has since enjoyed many years of robust health.—Kennebec Journal.

UNIVERSITY DAY IN RENO.

Wah, Moo, Wah! Zip, Boom, Ah!
Rah, Rah, Rah!
Nevada!

Ha! Ha! Ha!!! Californial U. C.
Berkeley! Zip, Boom,
Ah!

Yesterday was a gala day in Reno. Everyone felt an interest in the promised football contest between the second eleven of the College of California and the Nevada State University team. The business men generally agreed to close during the afternoon and the colors of the two universities were displayed in a number of instances and worn conspicuously by old and young. The campus was a scene of life long before the hour named for the game and the hills surrounding the natural amphitheatre were covered with spectators. Fifteen hundred people viewed the game, many of the interested ones arriving from adjacent towns and all manifesting an enthusiasm in the proceedings that the college boys may well feel proud of. Governor Sadler and State School Superintendent Cutting were interested spectators from the Capitol and many other prominent persons from Virginia and Carson.

Finlayson punts 35 yards, Kerfoot catches ball, Berkeley resorts to old tactics, tries quarter kick, and fumbles it and Keddie gets ball and makes gain of 15 yards before downed.
Nevada gains on backs through the line and aggregates a gain of twenty yards, but loses the ball on the 50-yard line.
Berkeley runs ball up field by short drives through line, but loses it on a fumble on the 80-yard line. Hayes, by a double pass, gains 30 yards on a run with good interference before being downed, the ball is fumbled, Kerfoot falling on it.
Berkeley takes ball up field by short end runs, bucks through line and gains a touch-down. Time, 25 minutes. Bender kicks goal. Score—California, 6; Nevada, 0.
Carman kicks off, Guiberson catches ball and runs it in five yards, and is downed by Keddie. Kearnsburg kicks 30 yards, Thompson misses catch, but falls on ball. Nevada ten yards by bucking line. Berkeley gets ball on downs, fumbles in next two downs, losing three yards. Quarter back kicks by Kearnsburg follows and in end Collier fumbles and Keddie gets ball.
Nevada's ball under 35-yard line, but makes no gain on next two downs. Finlayson kicks 40 yards, Kerfoot runs it in 20 yards, Nevada gets ball on a quarter kick on 20-yard line, Gignoux gains four yards by bucking through center, but Nevada fails to gain in next two downs. minutes after second half begins. Finlayson kicks a goal.
Score—California 10, Nevada 6.
Kearnsburg kicks off 50 yards, Moorman runs it in 20 yards. Keddie gains five yards, Thompson gains three yards through center.

Score—Berkeley 14, Nevada 0.
Carman kicks off to 40-yard line, Kerfoot goes to return it, but Keddie blocks the punt. Kearnsburg kicks 40 yards, Allen gets ball and Kearnsburg kicks again 30 yards. Berkeley by her guards back formation rushes the ball down for a touch-down by Ellis, thirty minutes after the beginning of second half. Bender kicks goal.

Score—California 20, Nevada 6.
Carman kicks off 15 yards, Dickson catching ball, Kearnsburg kicks twice 15 and 30 yards. Nevada makes short gains through the line. Time up, with ball on 50-yard line.
Final score—Berkeley 20, Nevada 6.
At the conclusion of the game the California boys gave the Nevada boys three hearty cheers and they were heartily responded to. While the Nevada boys were defeated, they made the California team play ball and they were free to admit it. The California team has the advantage of almost continuous practice under the direction of an experienced coach, while the home boys have only had a limited coaching and training. The game was a clean one throughout and the best of feeling prevailed.

The effect of this game will have a tendency to bring about other contests and it will not be long, with the experience gained yesterday, before the Nevada boys will come to the front and be recognized in the football world as competitors for the highest laurels.

The Minstrels.
The Opera House was crowded last night, the occasion being the first appearance of the University of Nevada minstrels.
The minstrel first part was well presented and the boys received many compliments from the large audience on the excellent manner of the stage setting and the appearance of the minstrel circle.
The vocal numbers were well rendered, showing more than average talent in this direction, and the whole compared very favorably with professional minstrels.
The olio and second part was interesting in every feature, and the students of the University may rest assured that their efforts were appreciated.
Several of those who took part are deserving of special mention, but as all cannot be particularized it is sufficient to say that were the boys to repeat the entertainment they would be greeted by a good house.

Telephone For Carson
Zenias Pratt will shortly put up a telephone line about Carson with a central office established. The line will take in the business houses and a number of residences in Carson and will also connect with Genoa, Gardnerville, Markleville and intermediate points, and eventually with Reno. This will be a fine thing for Carson and one that should be encouraged. The rates asked are very low, in fact lower than they are in San Francisco.—Carson News.

The Opening of the Mechanical Building.
The new Mechanical Building of the University will be opened Monday with special exercises in the Gymnasium at 11:30 A. M. The building will be open to the public for inspection after 10 o'clock. The address will be delivered by Mr. W. G. Curtis, a distinguished civil engineer on the subject, "The Civil Engineer in Railway Life and Work." The public cordially invited.

SOCIETY DANCE.
Valdemar Lodge No. 12 of Reno Entertains the Grand President.
Valdemar Lodge No. 12 of the Society Dania entertained President O. P. Kieldsen of California last evening. Mr. Kieldsen is a resident of Fresno and is making his official visits to the subordinate lodges of the order. After the lodge session the members adjourned to Messrs. Block and Clausen's place, where a splendid banquet was served in honor of the Grand President of this jurisdiction. Toasts were the order and a pleasant interchange of reminiscences of home and fatherland occurred. The festivities lasted until a late hour and Mr. Kieldsen was fully convinced of the enthusiasm of the members and of the prosperity of Valdemar Lodge.

Funch—the Kaiser.
A German family in this city has received a letter from the fatherland purporting to give the true story of the so called accident to Kaiser Wilhelm, by which one of his eyes was blackened on board a German man-of-war. The incident was said at the time to have been caused by the dangling of a piece of rope.
According to the letter referred to, a Swedish steamer was sailing ahead of the German warship, and the emperor commanded an officer in command of the warship to order the steamer out of the course of the warship.
"We cannot do that on the high seas, your majesty," replied the officer. "International law gives them the right to be where they are."
"I am the emperor," cried the kaiser, smiting his breast in anger, "and I command you to make that steamer get out of the course."
"And I am in command of this ship and refuse to do so," replied the officer, also becoming excited.
The next instant the emperor, says the letter writer, slapped the officer's face. The latter struck the emperor with his fist in the eye. Then, realizing what he had done, and that his life was ruined, the officer jumped overboard and was drowned.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Index Expurgatoria.
The faithful of the church of Rome are forbidden in the index expurgatoria to read 30,000 books. These are the works of 8,000 authors. Everything that Roman wrote is condemned, but only the more profane, from a Roman Catholic standpoint, of Voltaire's works appear in the index. Taine's "History of English Literature" is under the ban, but his studies on the French revolution are omitted from the list of prohibited books by the wish of Leo XIII. All of Cousin's works are condemned, but only four of Lamartine. For obvious reasons Eugene Sue's "Wandering Jew" and the "Mysteries of Paris" are both forbidden reading. The index contains a complete catalogue of the works of both the elder and younger Dumas, but only two of Victor Hugo's books are found in it, "Les Miserables" and "Notre Dame de Paris." There are two Zolas in the index—one is the author of "Rome," the other is a theologian of the last century.—Boston Transcript.

The Question of Skipping.
A good work of fiction, whether in prose or in verse—we are here speaking only of good works—is a work of art and can be rightly enjoyed only by entering into sympathy with the artist's mind and accepting his work according to his intention. In a perfect poem the place of every word, in a perfect novel the place of every word, of every episode and of every paragraph, is important, and the reader who skips throws away the pleasure he has meant to derive from the harmony of composition, in which very possibly the beauty of the whole may chiefly consist, and despises the best part of the artist's labor. He might as well go to see a good play and then willfully miss every alternate scene.—Self Culture.

A Hint to Young Authors.
The letter left by the postman was thinner than the bulky ones he usually brought, and the struggling young author tore it open eagerly.
"Your recent favor"—thus ran the editor's letter—"stating that you inclose manuscript story with stamps for return if not acceptable has been received. Your contribution is accepted."
"At last!" exclaimed the young author joyfully, but his heart sank as his eye caught the following:
"P. S.—You neglected to inclose the manuscript."—Detroit Free Press.

Pipe Made of a Seal's Tail.
A pipe made out of a seal's tail was seen at the Weare office recently. The stem is nearly a foot long and is quaintly illustrated with representations of life under the arctic circle.
The artist was an Indian, and the little sketches in India ink show up very well against the ivory background.
There is a reminder about to fall under the arrow of an archer. There is a sledge drawn by dogs. Fir trees, tapers, a fishing scene, where the caprices are being brought to shore in a net, are all true to life.
Another ornament of the same character is a pair of walrus tusks, with lineations of other Alaskan subjects, such as the fox and the white polar bear in evidence; also an Eskimo leveling a gun at the latter.
It is said that to add to the terrors of overland travel in the long winter months the larger wild animals are often driven by hunger to attack the trail-men, and packs of ferocious wolves will besiege a camp for days, attacking the horses and reindeer as well as the dogs.
More than one caravan has been done to death in this manner, as the whitened bones strewn along the tracks show.—

Grant's Name.
Would it have made any difference in history if Grant's initials had not been emblematic of his country—"U. S.," United States? They also stand for Uncle Sam and unconditional surrender.
Suppose he had gone to West Point as Hiram and the boys had called him Hi for short. Suppose he had gone there as Hiram Ulysses instead of Ulysses Hiram and the cadets had called him "H. U." G. Hug. Would not that have made a change in his career? We never had a public man to make so many changes in his name as did Grant. Hiram Ulysses, Ulysses Hiram, Ulysses Sidney
and Ulysses Simpson were the variations.—New York Press.

MY MAMMA'S HANDS.
I wish you'd see my mamma's hands
And the things that they can do.
She says they're "lively, tidy ones,"
But I don't believe that's true.
They're pretty, all the same, to me,
And mighty clever too.
She says she can't do anything
But I see her work all day.
She writes long things on paper,
Which she says are "not much pay."
She sews, knits and cooks sometimes
(And she spanked me yesterday).
She makes nice cake and candy,
And stockings she can darn.
Why, the other day I found her
Whitewashing our barn.
And often I do have to sit
And hold great hanks of yarn!
I wonder if my mamma's hands
Ever stop to go to sleep.
Why, they're busy when they hear me say,
"Pray God, my soul to keep."
Some night when she's not looking I'll just run in and peep.

ABE LINCOLN'S CHIVALRY.
Helped a Lawyer, Now Famous, to Win
His First Case.
His first case at the bar will never be forgotten by ex-Senator John C. S.
Blackburn of Kentucky, for Abraham Lincoln played a conspicuous part in helping the young Kentuckian to win his suit. Lincoln was merely an attorney, waiting for one of his cases to be called, when the incident occurred.
Ex-Senator Blackburn was only 20 years old when he began the practice of law, having graduated at Centre college, Danville, Ky. His first case was in the United States court in Chicago, presided over by Justice John McLean,
then on the circuit. The opposing counsel was Isaac N. Arnold, then at the head of the Chicago bar, and subsequently a member of congress and anthor of the first biography of Lincoln.
Young Blackburn had filed a demurrer to Mr. Arnold's pleadings in the case, and when the case was reached on the calendar the young Kentuckian was quite nervous at having such a formidable and experienced antagonist, while the dignity of the tribunal and the presence of a large number of eminent lawyers in court served to increase his timidity and embarrassment. In truth the stripling barrister was willing to have any disposition made of the case in order to get rid of the burden of embarrassment and "stage fright." He was ready to adopt any suggestion the opposing counsel should make.
Arnold made an argument in which he criticised the demurrer in a manner that increased the young lawyer's confusion. However, Blackburn knew he had to make some kind of an effort. He proceeded with a few remarks, weak and bewildering, and was about to sit down when a tall, homely, loose jointed man sitting in the bar arose and addressed the court in behalf of the position the young Kentuckian had assumed in a feeble and tangled argument, making the points so clear that the court sustained the demurrer.
Blackburn did not know who his volunteer friend was, and Mr. Arnold got up and sought to rebuke the latter for attempting to interfere in the case, which he had nothing to do with. This volunteer was none other than Abraham Lincoln, and this was the first and last time the Kentuckian ever saw the rail splitting president. In replying to Mr.
Arnold's strictures Mr. Lincoln said he claimed the privilege of giving a young lawyer a helping hand when struggling with his first case, especially when he was pitted against an experienced practitioner.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Electricity and Bally Horses.
One of the recent extensions of the use of electricity is in conquering a balky or lazy horse. A western Pennsylvania gentleman owned a horse which he said was worth $1,000, provided he could cure him of balking. It was suggested that he try electricity.
He purchased a three volt storage battery and connected it by wires with the bit and the crupper. The battery was placed in the road cart to which the horse was attached. At first the horse refused to move, but stood with all four feet braced. Then the owner touched the button connected with the battery.
When the horse felt the shock, he snorted, jumped and began to move off at a lively pace. Every day for a week he was given the same lesson. His owner, who does not care to sell him, declares that now he never balks, bites or kicks.
The West Pennsylvania Humane society, which investigated the method, came to the conclusion that a small amount of electricity used upon a horse was more humane than a whip.—Exchange.

England's Shortest Railway.
The shortest railway line in Great Britain is the Brighton Dyke Steep Grade railway, which was opened recently, adding a new feature to the attractions of "Devil's Dyke." The Dyke, which is a favorite resort of the British, is a great but remarkably regular chasm on the South downs, situated about six miles to the northwest of Brighton. The view from the tableland, nearly 700 feet above the sea level, which surrounds it is one of the finest panoramic views obtainable in the country. The new line, which descends direct from the top of the hill to a point about a quarter of a mile distant from the village of Poyning in the plain below, is only 340 feet in length.
Love Sifted Down.
A certain learned judge in New York
(all judges are learned) handed down this opinion the other day along with some sage counsel to a poor man who had been contemplating the illegal act known as felo de se, or self slaughter.
"Don't get so melancholy and love sick about a woman," said the judge, speaking as one having experience and authority. "There are others. Love doesn't amount to much when you siff it."
